Condition Report

The Papier Mache gilded statues set are typical of Maltese religious artefacts, typical of the period. The structure is still in very good conservation state, the gilding has aged and the gilded bases in some areas the deterioration is very high. In fact, there was gesso which is flaking and had to be treated. In some other areas, some cracks and missing gesso and missing wood ornate is visible, but they can be conserved. The head, hands and feet are made of clay infact there is few missing fingers which must be reproduced. The dresses are made of fabric covered in gesso and gilded with the sgraffito technique and then painted with oil base colour. They need to be cleaned and retouching is need in missing areas.
